THE SURRENDER OF FORT GAINES.—The New Orleans Times of the 10th has the following additional particulars of the surrender of Fort Gaines, through the kindness of an officer of the fleet.

Fort Gaines capitulated at 10 o'clock on the morning of the 8th, when a portion of Gen. Granger's forces marched into the fortifications, and the Stars and Stripes were flung to the breeze.

The articles of capitulation were signed on the evening of the 7th by Admiral Farragut and Gen. Granger, on the part of the Union forces, and by Col. Anderson, commanding Fort Gaines.

Eight hundred and eighteen prisoners were surrendered with the fort, twenty-four pieces of ordnance, including some six rifled guns, and one thousand stand of arms; also a large supply of provisions and ammunition.

On the afternoon of the 6th the fort was shelled for half an hour by the monitor Chickasaw, Capt. Perkins, which elicited only two shots from the rebels, neither of which struck the monitor. One of the Chickasaw's shells exploded on the gels of the fort, killing two men.

The rebel gunboat Salina was fought faintly. The rebel gunboat Gaines was so badly damaged that she sank under the guns of Fort Morgan. The rumor that one of the rebel vessels had succeeded in getting out by the bay is incorrect. Those that were not sunk or captured escaped to Mobile.

Col. Anderson remarked to our officers, that, when he saw the gunboats pass the fort, he knew that it was all up with him. The rebel defences on the harbor side were very weak, having been constructed, with a view to a strong defence on the land side.

Admiral Buchanan is now at Pensacola-Hospital. It is expected that his leg will be saved.

The Tennessee is immensely powerful. Her armament consists of six 7-inch rifled guns.

The gunboats Bienville, Goneses, and Sabago are on their way to New Orleans with the prisoners.

THE MEXICAN POSITION.—We are happy to learn, says the New Orleans Picayune of the 11th, from the highest authority, that Mr. Jaurès, the President of Mexico, is not only still at Monterrey, but that he has a large and increasing force of regular troops with him and within supporting distance. Our news from there is to the 23rd ult. General Ortega had arrived for the purpose of presiding over the Supreme Court, the judges of which tribunal were rapidly assembling, and General Dolado was also at Monterrey. Ortega's troops, which had been at Párras, were on the march to that city, four thousand in number; and Patoni will be able to bring five thousand more, with the forces now at Monterrey and the contingents of Tamaulipas, will make an army of fifteen thousand regular troops, with which, under such General as are assembled around him, it is believed he can successfully resist any assault which can be made against him in his present position. No movements can be made by the French with any large body of troops earlier than the 1st of October, owing to the nature of the country and from the being the rainy season. By that time it is believed that all necessary preparations will be made, so that the more earnest the effort to dislodge him the more thorough will be the defeat of the assaulting party. Of course, much depends upon the alacrity with which the President's call of troops will be met, and the procuring of adequate supplies. But the object, after all, with the Liberals, is to consume the time of the invaders. Every month which is used by them in vain efforts to subjugate the people of Mexico, adds to the burdens of the French people, and to their discontent at home. The Mexicans are wasted the most, it is true; but they are used to this, and have no other course before them than to fight as best they may, and to persevere do the rest.

THE NEW LOAN CERTIFICATES.—The bonds for the new Government loan have been issued and are beautifully printed, with designs which are remarkably handsome. The vignette on the $50 bond is a spirited figure of an eagle, beneath which is to be placed the name of the person to whose order the bond is drawn. Five coupons for the semi-annual interest of $1.82½, are attached, the last six months' interest to be paid with the bond itself. On the back is the announcement that the bond is convertible in the 5-20 loan. The bond, with the coupons, is numbered in red. The vignette on the $100 bond is a most admirable portrait of General Scott, the rest of the letters and figures being somewhat like those on the $50 bond. Five coupons, for the semi-annual interest of $3.35, are attached, and the back contains the same announcement as the bond previously described, though the lettering, &c., are varied from the other design.

BUSHWACKERS IN CARROLL COUNTY, MISSOURI.—We learn from the Chillicothe Chronicle that a fight occurred on Sunday morning last, eight miles east of Carrollton, Mo., between Bushwackers and a party of dim-witted men from Carroll and Ray. Captain Tiffin of Ray, had two men killed and one or two wounded. Captain Calvert, of Carroll, had three men killed and one or two wounded. Col. Hudson and his brother-in-law, by the name of Keston, we believe, are among the killed in Calvert's company. Five of Anderson's gang were killed. Three of the killed were taken off, strapped on horses and returned next Sunday.

The Richmond Conservator states that about two hundred bushwhackers crossed to the south side of the Missouri, near Richfield, on last Monday.

PAUL H. SMITH, Manager.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 23, 1864.

"If," said Senator Collier in a speech made during the late session of Congress, "we are constrained to call up, invoke, and put in exercise in any one department of the government—more of power, more of force, than the constitution provides or that is limited by the constitution—the moment we do that, or are constrained from our imposed necessities to do it, we acknowledge before the world that we are an insufficient nation, and that we are all compelled in the period of trial, to resort to the force which, they say, is necessary to the existence of a nation, and our existence is a failure. We should, therefore, particularly in a period like this, carefully study and carefully regard all the limitations and provisions of the constitution. It is vain and idle in us to war against a part of our people because they have made war upon a government, if we at the same time have to say the foundation of the government by stabbing through the vitals of the constitution." This is sound doctrine. But it is not Republican doctrine. The whole offence of the conservatives of the Union consists in their endeavor by all legitimate means to carry this doctrine into effect for the salvation of the country. This is absolutely the head and front of their offending.

This doctrine, as we have said, is the conservative doctrine. We accept it as declared by Senator Collier, a distinguished follower of the Republican party. But, as we have also said, it is not the Republican doctrine. The Radical conservative doctrine is declared by Mr. Lincoln in his letter to Mr. Hopper, "if that measure is otherwise unconstitutional, right becomes lawful, by becoming indispensable to the preservation of the constitution, through the preservation of the nation. Right or wrong, I assumed this ground, and now avow it." In other words, Mr. Lincoln avows that whatever he deems indispensable to the preservation of the nation becomes thereby lawful, though otherwise unconstitutional. In still other words, he avows that his discretion is the supreme law of the land, anything in the constitution or laws to the contrary notwithstanding. And his party indorses the avowal. This is the contradiction of the doctrine avowed by Senator Collier, which we repeat, is the conservative doctrine.

A lady, who has managed to return from what was once the wealthiest and most prosperous part of Alabama, makes this statement concerning the condition and spirit of the Southern people:

The desolation of the Southern States beggars description. Destitution and poverty are the plagues of the people. Hundreds of thousands are reduced to utter poverty. As for the luxur of life, formerly so abundant in the South, there are none. Those who have been born in the South have lost their life, but what the country affords, and not enough of that, for by impressment it is taken from them for the army. Their garments are worn out, and their families have to make themselves; their spin, weaver, and power. Tea, coffee, and sugar are no longer to be had. The country is entirely bare—Indian corn is their principal food. The men are broken up and ruined. You seldom meet with a male inhabitant, and if you do, he is either in firm or a cripple. A large portion of the men are dead, either by battle or disease, more crippled for lifetime; many patients Union men died of a broken heart. What remains are in the army in the employment of the government, and the press gang across the country in all directions, and of men for the army. All ties of social life are completely dissolved. No courts of justice or equals are to be found—justice is meted out with a male inhabitant. The country in many places resembles a wilderness, wherever the armies march, there everything is destroyed. The cattle are burned, the trees cut down, domestic animals are robbed, or taken for the army. But whatever the Southern people may suffer, they have little with herism and resignation; they have little to eat, and are compelled to live on what they can get, that prefer ignominy to death. Under the impending Congressional and Presidential measures, they deem it impossible to surrender to the Union, and are resolved to unite in effect for the salvation of the country. This is absolutely the head and front of their offending.

MEDICINES.

A Remedy for the Season.
FOR DIARRHEA AND DYSENTERY, JAMES'S COMMUNATIVE BALM will be found a certain cure, and prompt remedy. The most violent attacks of these complaints, to master from what causes they may arise, and to subdue it, and no bad effects springing from its use.
FOR ASIATIC CHOLERA, GRAMPS, &c., JAMES'S COMMUNATIVE BALM, if administered promptly, will afford immediate relief, the disease being soon removed, and the patient in its earliest stages.
Older Men—The Society of all Board Acre men are specially cured by JAMES'S COMMUNATIVE BALM, which takes away all sources of the abdomen, soothes the stomach, and restores its natural action. As a family remedy for the disease generally so prevalent among us, and for all other diseases, during the summer months, it is especially recommended, being in its operations, so perfectly safe, and easily administered.

TO OUR AGENTS AND WEEKLY SUBSCRIBERS.—In consequence of the continued advance of everything connected with the publishing of our paper, we can take no more subscriptions to our Weekly at current rates. We must have $2 50 for each and every subscriber.

SUBSTITUTE WANTED.—An advance will be given on the current price. Apply at counting-room.

We publish elsewhere an address from Colonel Baldwin to the voters of the Thirty-seventh Senatorial District. The Colonel is a man of ability and intelligence as well as a soldier of the highest order of merit. The only objection we have had to him as a candidate for the Senatorship is that of inability to represent to residence. If this objection is well-founded, it of course outweighs all the acknowledged merit of our gallant friend. Whether it is well-founded or not, we are unable positively to say.

From the Façoy.—How Romeo Desner, from a private letter, written by Lieutenant J. S. Adcock of the 10th Kentucky infantry, from in front of Atlanta, date of August 14th, we learn that the deserters from the rebel army were quite numerous, a number of the soldiers coming into our lines every day, and delivering themselves up as candidates for the privileges granted by the camp of America. On the afternoon of the 15th the 15th army corps made a charge on the rebel works and captured their picket lines. At the same time our pickets in front of Carter's brigade, 1st division, 14th army corps, stood up and called to the rebels from their tents to desist and come over, assuring them that they would be kindly received. To the great surprise of all, some two hundred rebels leaped out of their rifle pits and came into our lines, some with and others without guns. They came in a full run, and were fired upon, without effect, by their comrades in the rear. The scene is described as thrilling and exciting. As they neared our lines wild cheers greeted them, and friend hands of welcome were extended. Gen. Carter immediately advanced a strong line of skirmishers and took possession of the deserted rifle-pits. At last accounts our men were still holding them. The position is within less than three hundred yards of the main rebel works. The letter also states that Mathew Nunes of the 10th Kentucky, and acting brigade Commissary Sergeant, was captured in the 10th while out foraging, and is now a prisoner in rebel hands. A young man named Dobson, of co. C, of the 10th regiment, on the 13th was killed by a rebel shot while engaged in cooking breakfast for the company. The ball passed through a coffee pot, a kettle of soup, and entered the abdomen of Dobson, wounding him so severely that he died in less than two hours.

GUERRILLAS.—A SPIRITED PURSUER.—We are informed by letter that Meade, Hardin, Breckinridge, Hancock, Davies, and Grayson counties are overrun by guerrilla bands. This is not much news to us, and we presume less to our readers. There are but few portions of Kentucky that are not infested by roving gangs of outlaws. Companies B and G of the 35th Kentucky volunteers, for some time past, have actively been engaged in hunting down the guerrilla bands and attempting to exterminate the robbers from the country. The detachments have met with considerable success, and the dashings companies of the 35th are becoming quite a terror to thriving gang. The guerrillas are shielded by many of the citizens, and it is next to impossible to surprise and capture them, as they are informed of all our movements by their sympathizing friends.

On the 18th inst., Lieut. Harrel, commanding the detachments from the 35th Kentucky, made a sudden descent upon a squad of five of the outlaws, commanded by Captain Bryant, Deporter's associate, in the recent attack on Brandenburg. The guerrillas attempted to escape by desperate flight. Our boys put spurs to their horses, and dashed madly after them discharging volleys of pistol-shots at the skedaddling forms. The noted robber Frank Burch was killed, and his horse captured. The notorious Burch was observed to fall in the brush, and it is presumed that he was killed. Our men were so eager in the pursuit that they did not stop to ascertain whether he was wounded to death or not. The other scoundrels were pursued some distance, but, owing to the thick-wooded country, succeeded in making good their escape.

Lieut. Harrel is doing good service with his men in that section of the State, and it is to be hoped that the citizens will afford him all the assistance in their power to aid him in exterminating the robber bands.

DEATH OF MAJOR CHARLES FOSTER.—We have received the sad intelligence that Major Charles Foster, of the Eleventh Iowa regiment of Volunteer Infantry, died of congestive chills at Cincinnati, on the twenty-first instant. This intelligence is as unexpected as it is painful. Major Foster left this city last week for his home in Iowa; and, though suffering from a wound received in the battle near Atlanta, was in good health and high spirits. He indeed reached Cincinnati in this condition, as we learn from a gentleman who attended him in his last moments, feeling so well after his arrival that his wife, who accompanied him, wrote him that they would renew their journey on the following day, which was Saturday last. But shortly after he was taken with congestive chills, and, when our correspondent saw him at eleven o'clock on Sunday, he was unconscious and unable to articulate anything intelligible. He died a few hours later. His country loss in him one of the most devoted and gallant defenders. Major Foster was a native of New Hampshire, a graduate of Dartmouth College, and, when he entered the army, a member of the bar of Iowa. He has fallen almost on the threshold of a brilliant career. Peace to his ashes! And peace to the country for whose life he has laid down his own.

KENTUCKY REGIMENTS FROM THE FRONT.—The 1st and 11th Kentucky cavalry regiments arrived in the city last evening on the Nashville train. They are direct from the front. The dashing old First, "Wolfford's Cavalry," the heroes should be warmly welcomed by Kentucky, and their names ever cherished as the bravest of her defenders. Yes, extend the hand with "welcome, three welcome to Kentucky, gallant First!"

The 11th was enlisted as a one-year regiment. It has been baptized in blood and battle, and return to the State to reorganize as veterans.

POCKET-PICKING.—A Kentuckian named Jas. Knight "all them thieves" last Friday evening, who, being of rather agreeable address, managed to drink him drunk, and, then, in the excess of their affectionate regard, to relieve him of a purse containing one hundred and forty dollars, all of which happened at a saloon on Fifth street, between Main and Seymour, in Cincinnati.

REBEL PRISONERS.—Twenty-two rebel prisoners of war and twenty-four political prisoners, from Georgia, were forwarded from the Military Prison in this city yesterday to Camp Chase, Ohio. Nine political prisoners were received on the morning train from Nashville.

Under a recent decision all professional gamblers have to take out a government license. The Government will likely receive a considerable addition to its revenue in this city if this law is enforced.

General Crampton arrived in the city from the front last night. He is stopping at the Galt House.

GUERRILLA EXECUTION AT FRANKLIN, KY.—Chas. Clary, Lieutenant of the 12th Kentucky cavalry, who, with a detail of ten men, on the morning of the 20th, left the city in charge of four guerrillas from the Military Prison, with orders to proceed to Franklin, Ky., and there execute them in retaliation for the murder of Union citizens, reports to Col. Fairlie that he has returned to Louisville, having faithfully obeyed his orders. He states that he arrived in Franklin at two o'clock, P. M., and found Lieutenant Adams there with a detachment of twenty men from the 20th Kentucky volunteers. Soon after he received a dispatch from headquarters of Louis ville, directing him to defer the execution of H. J. Caw, until further orders. At 6 o'clock in the evening he ordered the two remaining prisoners, J. Bloom and N. B. McGlaser, to prepare to meet their doom. Both refused to make any confessions. McGlaser claimed that he was innocent of any crime. Bloom was mope, and put out little. The Rev. Mr. Kidd, of Franklin, played with them, and afforded them all the spiritual comfort in its power. Many citizens were on the ground to witness the execution. The Lieutenant placed Bloom on one side of the court-house, and McGlaser on the other. Both of the doomed men appeared calm and collected. Not a blanch or a quiver betrayed the emotion of either as the guise, with the sharp, dread click, were brought to a "ready." The order was given to fire, and the report of musketry rang clear and startling upon the air. The two prisoners fell forward, bloody corpses, their bodies pierced with many balls. Their white blood stained the green sword, the pallor of death chilled their brows, the fearful orders was passed, and the murder of Union citizens was fearfully avenged. The Lieutenant returned to the city yesterday morning with his detail, bringing with him the guerrilla Clave, snatched, as he was, from the very jaws of death. He is now confined in the barracks prison, and awaits the action of the military authorities to learn his doom.

SILVER PEARL SOAP.—Messrs. Rappo, Bro. & Co., in introducing this new article, have certainly provided for a great saving of labor and money to families. A bar of common soap, the German as it is called, now costs sixteen cents, while the Silver Pearl is sold at six cents per pound. For house-cleaning, restoring bed-ridden paupers, cleaning back-benches and furniture from stains, it is invaluable. It can be used to cleanse carpets and old-clothes without danger of any injury, as it does not contain any ingredient which would be prejudicial to the color or the fabric. It polishes silver-wares and jewellery better than any of the compounds which have heretofore been used. Varnished wall paper can be washed with it to free it from dirt or grease. We cannot speak of it, from our family experience, as to washing clothes, but the makers claim for it merits in the laundry as great as we know it possesses in the case above mentioned. Both these extracts are now in use in the army. They are almost invariably successful, and deserve their success.
